MEET TASSOS

Anastasius, who prefers to go as “Tassos,” is the Co-Chair of the firm’s Business and Finance Department. He also chairs the firm’s Public Finance Practice Group. Tassos’ practice focuses on transactional work, including public finance, real estate development, construction contracts, and non-profit organization matters.

Tassos was born in Athens, Greece, and still embraces his roots. Fluent in Greek and French, he has the ability to assist clients from a variety of geographical areas and ethnic backgrounds.

EXPERIENCE

Tassos has represented state and local governments and agencies in public finance transactions and public private partnerships, involving financing of transportation facilities, utility infrastructure, economic development projects, and affordable housing projects. He has represented developers and financial institutions in the planning and development of major real estate projects in the Mid-Atlantic Region. Tassos has advised non-profit corporations in governance and transactional matters, including asset preservation and divestiture, tax-exempt bond financing and joint venture projects. He has also represented several national and regional banks in financial transactions.
